Long ago there existed
an order of warriors
and heroes known as
the Celestrial Knights.
For many ages this
order protected the
land and it`s people
from the evils that threatened them. At the height of their power
they built a massive

fortress surrounding Lake Hammerfell to protect the people of the area as well as
some hereto unknown
artifact of power that rested in the lake. Long did the fortress stand

and the lands around it were all the better for it.

But there came a time
when a traitor did rise up from within and
destroy the fortress,
and most of the Order
with it. He had been turned from the light by an ancient female
vampire who despised

the Order and all it stood for. She did twist his heart and mind and
did introduce him to the dark art of Necromancy. His skill
with magic had no
equal at his time and so to did his skill in the dark arts become. With no one capable of
standing against him
he destroyed all who
did try and even those
fight back. The few survivors that lived ceed
him he carried the
sword called "Truth". A
the lone Knight lay
slain by the Vampire
that began it all. When a few family members
the lake they found the site of battle and the
bodies that laid there.
They did bury all who
where slain including
the ill fated hero and
the evil one. Fearing
the powers of the evil
one they laid him to rest in a far off place
were none would find
him. They did not find the sword "Truth"
amidst the battlefield

and no one to this day
has seen it again.
